Imtech Inviron retains and expands Parliamentary Estate contract

Imtech Inviron has retained and significantly extended its technical facilities maintenance contract at the Houses of Parliament. In a new eight year deal the team will provide planned preventative maintenance and reactive support, along with undertaking additional project work, across the entire Parliamentary Estate.

Imtech Inviron has delivered technical FM at the Houses of Parliament for over 20 years. During this time the team has undertaken numerous projects, including major refurbishment of mechanical and electrical systems during Parliament recesses.

The new expanded contract covers the Parliamentary Estate of 16 buildings including the House of Lords and House of Commons, the State Archives and administrative buildings such as the former New Scotland Yard plus Grade I listed buildings such as Norman Shaw North and Millbank House.

‘I would like to congratulate our team headed by Business Unit Director, Shaun McKenna and Account Manager, Steve Bowers, along with the entire team on this win, it is testament to the effort, dedication and performance they have delivered over the years’ commented Noel Clancy, Managing Director, Imtech Inviron. ‘We are now looking forward to building on the relationships developed to date.’
